Consider These 10 Garden Resolutions for 2018

Dr. Gary R. Bachman
MSU Extension Service

The brand-new year is the perfect time to make gardening resolutions.

My job at Mississippi State University's Coastal Research and Extension Center in Biloxi gives me the opportunity to answer a lot of questions and solve many garden problems. Based on this experience, here's my list of resolutions Mississippi gardeners can make to be more successful in the new year.

1) Planting: Competitive gardeners -- and this includes me -- want to have the first tomato in the neighborhood. This usually means putting transplants out in the garden a full month before the last frost date. Don't do it. Plant according to the frost dates for your area. You may not have the first tomato, but you won't have to replant, either.

2) Starting: Transplants are thought to be expensive, so many gardeners start their own seeds. This can result in disappointment and no transplants. Seedlings get leggy when grown inside without sufficient light. Unless you use grow lights, buy transplants from your favorite garden center.

3) Rotating: Every year, I get calls from gardeners asking why their tomatoes looked good one day and the next they have wilted to nothing. Mississippi has a high incidence of bacterial wilts that result from planting in the same spots year after year. Grow your tomatoes in a new spot in the garden each year to help this situation.

4) Discarding: This idea is for those gardeners who grow their own seedlings and often have extras. We don't have the heart to just throw them away, so we end up planting them. This results in more work on hot summer days and takes a lot of the fun out of the garden. Consider making new friends by giving the extras to your neighbors.

5) Weeding: Weeds compete with garden plants for light, water, and fertilizer. Once established, they are a lot of work to remove. Try to weed your garden on a regular basis. I like using a hula hoe to easily remove small weed seedlings.

6) Feeding: You have to fertilize your plants to have a good harvest. Get your soil tested and follow the recommendations. You will not be sorry.

7) Watering: You can't rely on Mother Nature to supply enough water for your garden. Get in the habit of watering on a daily basis, preferably in the morning. If you don't want to stand out there with a hose, there are inexpensive irrigation kits available at home improvement centers.

8) Preserving: Enjoying fresh vegetables is a gardener's dream, but there are times when the harvest is just too much. Extend the harvest into the cold winter months by preserving your bounty. The MSU Extension Service offers advice on how to do so safely.

9) Sharing: If you don't want to preserve your bountiful harvest, take the excess to your local soup kitchen or food pantry to share with the less fortunate. You may be able to make a little money by selling the extras at a local farmers' market. Either way, always call ahead to see if there are any restrictions on what you can offer.

10) Recycling: Build a compost pile and always put used plant material and other organic wastes on the pile. Next year, add this black gold to your garden and start the cycle all over again.

If you follow these resolutions, I can almost -- notice I said almost -- guarantee you'll have more fun in the garden this year.

From Our Kitchen To Yours

New Year's Day Menu Ideas

Crock Pot Red Beans and Rice with Andouille Sausage

1 pound dried small red bean or kidney beans
1 1/2 quarts water
3 ribs celery, diced or sliced, about 1 heaping cup
1 large onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 bay leaves
1/2 teaspoon (or more) crushed red pepper flakes
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 pound spicy andouille sausage, diced
1/2 cup diced green bell pepper
2 cups long-grain rice

Put the dried beans in a bowl of cold water and swish them around to rinse. Discard floating beans. Drain the beans in a colander and pick them over, looking for any small stones or malformed beans. Put the beans in the crockery insert of a slow cooker. Add 1 1/2 quarts of water to the beans along with the celery, onion, garlic, bay leaves and crushed red pepper flakes. Cover slow cooker and cook the beans on low for about six to seven hours, or until the beans are tender. Or cook them for about three and a half to five hours on high. Heat the vegetable oil in a skillet over medium heat. Add the diced andouille sausage and cook, stirring, until the sausage is nicely browned. Add the sausage and bell pepper to the beans. Taste and add two to three teaspoons kosher salt, or to taste. Cover and continue cooking on low for one to two hours. Meanwhile, cook the rice in a rice cooker or on the stovetop following package directions. Mound the rice on a plate or in a bowl. Ladle the beans over the rice. Serve red beans and rice with freshly baked cornbread.

Classic Southern Buttermilk Cornbread

2 cups white or yellow cornmeal
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 cups buttermilk
1 large egg
3 tablespoons melted shortening plus more for the skillet

Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. Position the rack in the center of the oven. Put about one tablespoon of shortening in a 9-to-10-inch cast iron skillet and place the skillet in the oven. In a large bowl, combine the cornmeal, flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Whisk to blend thoroughly. In another bowl, whisk together the buttermilk, egg and shortening. Add the buttermilk mixture to the dry mixture and stir just until blended. Carefully remove the hot cast iron pan from the oven and set it on a metal rack. Pour the batter into the sizzling shortening in the hot skillet. Return the skillet to the oven, reduce the temperature to 375 degrees F, and bake for about 20 to 24 minutes, until golden brown. Cut the cornbread into wedges and serve hot.

Turnip Greens with Ham Shanks

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 cup chopped onion
2 to 3 smoked ham shanks
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 cups chicken broth
1 pound well-washed and chopped greens
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
Dash cayenne pepper
Salt, to taste

Heat oil in a large Dutch oven or kettle over medium heat. Add onion and cook, stirring, until softened and translucent. Add the ham shanks and cook for about six minutes, turning the shanks a few times. Add garlic and chicken broth. Bring to a boil; reduce heat to medium-low, cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Remove ham shanks with a slotted spoon. Put the washed turnip greens in the liquid, a few handfuls at a time, until all are in the pot. The simmering liquid will wilt them as you add them to the pot. Add the sugar and peppers. Remove the bones from the ham and dice or shred the meat; return the ham pieces to the pot. Bring the greens to a boil. Reduce heat to medium-low and simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Cover and simmer for about 30 minutes longer, or until the greens are very tender. The broth will cook down a bit, so it might be salty enough; taste and add salt if needed.

Spicy Southern Black-Eyed Peas

1 pound dried black-eyed peas
4 ounces salt pork, rind removed, diced, or thick bacon, diced
1 cup chopped onion
3 to 4 cloves garlic, minced
1 to 2 cups diced cooked ham
2 ribs celery, diced
1/2 red bell pepper, diced, optional
1/2 green bell pepper, diced, optional
1 tablespoon Creole or Cajun seasoning mixture
1/2 teaspoon salt, or to taste
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Ground hot pepper, optional, to taste

Following package directions, soak the black-eyed peas overnight or cover with water, boil for two minutes, then let stand for one hour; drain. Meanwhile, in a large skillet, sauté the diced salt pork with onion until onion is browned. Combine salt pork and onions with the drained peas and remaining ingredients; add water just to cover. Simmer for about one and a half to two and a half hours, or until tender, checking and adding a little more water if necessary. Taste and adjust seasonings.

The Mississippi Timber Price Report (MTPR) is a quarterly survey of stumpage timber prices in Mississippi. It is developed to provide a picture of timber market activity. The state average prices for common forest products are listed. Values given are offered as a guide to help individuals assess the fair market value of their timber. The average price should not be applied as the exact value for a particular tract. This report is updated quarterly and available at MSUCares.com/forestry, or by contacting your local county Extension office.

Owls Bring Mystery, Plus Rodent control

By Dr. Leslie M. Burger
MSU Extension Service

What do Harry Potter, Winnie the Pooh, the U.S. Forest Service, Tootsie Pops and Xyzal have in common? All prominently feature owls in their stories and marketing campaigns.

Some owls help sell products such as lollipops and allergy medications. Others sell ideas, like the Forest Service's Woodsy Owl -- "Give a Hoot, Don't Pollute." Harry had a pet owl named Hedwig, and Winnie had a friend named Owl.

For generations, owls have captured our fascination. Their soft colors, nocturnal habits, and large, round eyes enhance owls' air of mystery, magic and apparent wisdom. In reality, owls are not very wise. Crows, ravens and parrots are considered to be the most intelligent of birds.

What they lack in brains, they make up for in stealth. Muted colors, soft wing and leg feathers, and excellent vision and hearing allow owls to be very effective hunters. For example, a barn owl can catch as many as 1,000 small rodents in a single year. Keeping the rodent population in check helps to control property damage and disease risks.

Not all owls eat rodents. Larger owls such as the great horned owl will feed on rabbits, skunks and even other owls. Barred owl diets may include salamanders, crayfish, frogs and other small creatures found near water.

Many owl species swallow their prey whole. The indigestible parts are later cast or regurgitated out of the bird's mouth. Biologists can examine these casts or owl pellets to learn more about owl diets and habitat needs.

Owls are adapted to live in diverse habitats on every continent except Antarctica. Beautiful snowy owls, such as Hedwig from the Harry Potter books, live in the arctic tundra, not at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry. Their white feathers allow them to remain camouflaged in the long winters. The mottled gray and brown feathers of the screech owl are perfect cover in its forest habitat.

The great horned owl is one of the larger owls in Mississippi. These owls feed on rabbits, skunks and even other owls.

Most people might think of owls as tree-dwelling birds, but there are some species that spend their lives on the ground. The short-eared owl of Southern and Midwestern grasslands nests on the ground rather than in tree branches or hollow trunks. As its name implies, the burrowing owl nests and sleeps underground in tunnels dug by prairie dogs, coming up to the surface to hunt.

It is a common misconception that an owl can turn its head in a 360-degree circle. However, it can turn about 270 degrees, which is certainly much farther than what humans can do. Their large eyes cannot move in the sockets, so they need greater neck flexibility to find food and avoid predators.

Owls have an important job in our native ecosystem. Some species are facing challenges due to habitat loss or modification. Declining owl populations may result in greater crop and property damage, as well as increased risk of rodent-related diseases. I hope always to live in a world where lovely birds such as Hedwig the snowy owl are part of wild nature and not just characters in storybooks.

New Year's Pasture Resolutions

By David Annis
Noble Foundation

A new year! Each January we make New Year's resolutions with the best of intentions. Of course, we all promise to eat better and exercise more, but have you ever given any thought to making resolutions about your pastures? Let's plan now to practice better pasture management this year. Assuming a good stand of introduced forage (such as bermudagrass), most of our management decisions for pasture forage production revolve around fertilizer, weed control, and weather.

Most of us would like to spend the smallest amount of money on our pastures and get the greatest return on our investment. Therefore, let me tell you about a great, money saving secret for pasture fertilization: soil-test and fertilize your pastures according to the soil test recommendations. Rank your pastures according to productivity, and spend your fertilizer dollars on the highest yielding pastures first.

For those of you who apply a 17-17-17 or complete fertilizer each year without having a current soil test, you may be spending way too much. Why purchase nutrients if your soil is capable of supplying the necessary nutrients to the plants? Soil tests usually run around $6 per sample, not counting your time and effort.

As an example, if your soil analysis shows adequate potassium and you've been applying a complete fertilizer all these years, you will save money by not applying this nutrient. That money can be spent on other projects around the ranch or farm.

One of the important parts of the soil test is your yield goal. If you provide a soils consultant with a realistic yield goal for your pastures, they can better determine how much fertilizer to recommend. You'll still need Mother Nature to help you out with timely rain and seasonable temperatures, but you will have done everything in your power to stack the odds in your favor. A word of advice on yield goals: If the pasture has never achieved the yield goal that you write down, you most likely will not achieve your goal no matter how much fertilizer or rain you receive.

Weed control in late January and early February is another often overlooked decision point. If you have a problem with thistles in your pastures, consider an application of about one quart per acre of 2,4-D amine formulation while the thistles are still in the rosette stage. When the thistles are in the rosette stage, they can be easily and inexpensively controlled with 2,4-D.

The rosette stage is the vegetative stage of the thistle before it "bolts" or puts up a stem and seed head in the spring. Once the thistles start to bolt, it's all over.

Weather is the most consistently uncertain factor we have in agriculture. We can only say for certain that it will be cold in winter and hot during the summer. Most of us in agriculture are optimists - we believe that we will have an average year with average rainfall. Regardless, you won't get the forage production you expect if you don't have the fertilizer on your pasture when the rain arrives.

In summary, if you haven't had a soil test on a pasture in the past three years, take one. If you have thistles, control them in the very early spring. Finally, have fertilizer on the pasture before the rains come.

For more information on soil testing, spraying for weeds, and pasture management, contact your local county Extension office.

Warning Against Hay Sales Scammers

By Barry Coward
Director of Mississippi Agricultural and Livestock Theft Bureau

Be careful who you sell hay to and take extra precaution when buying or selling hay or livestock through email, social media, or text message. The Mississippi Agricultural and Livestock Theft Bureau (MALTB) is warning farmers and ranchers to be alert for possible scams involving hay sales. In recent weeks the MALTB has received some reports about scammers contacting hay sellers in Mississippi and other states.

A popular scheme among thieves is the supposed hay buyer will send the seller a check in excess of the amount the hay is being sold for and then ask the seller to wire the extra money somewhere else.

The scammers explain the overpayment by saying they need to cover taxes or shipping costs; however, then the check bounces and the scammer already has the money wired to them. The hay seller is then left to pay the money back to the bank.

The MALTB advises all of its hay suppliers to practice sound business dealings when responding to inquiries for the sale of their hay. If something seems questionable about a transaction or purchase, it is recommended to always reach out to your local law enforcement agency or contact the MALTB at 1-800-678-2660.
