Newly appointed Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Andy Gipson was sworn into office by Chief Justice William Waller, Jr. during a ceremony held at the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce on April 2, 2018.

Gipson will serve as the eighth Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce, replacing Cindy Hyde-Smith, who was appointed to the U.S. Senate by Gov. Phil Bryant last month. Gipson will carry out the remainder of Hyde-Smith's term.

As a farmer, lawyer, pastor and former State Representative, Gipson looks forward to working with everyone in Mississippi to promote, market and strengthen agriculture and commerce in the state.

"It is crucial that we work together to plant and tend the seeds of opportunity for agriculture," Gipson said. "I invite all Mississippians of every background to work in unity to strengthen and grow this, the state's largest economic sector. Let's go to work together and pull in the same direction."

Gipson plans to delve into his new role by leading a Mississippi Farm Tour during the 2018 growing season in an effort to build relationships with farmers across the state.

"This summer, my family and I will travel to all regions across the state visiting its diverse farms to get to know our farmers and their issues, challenges and opportunities," he said.

Gipson has owned and managed a cattle operation in Simpson County for more than 20 years and a tree farm since 2004. He is a member of the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association and the Simpson County Development Foundation.

He represented House District 77, which serves parts of Simpson and Rankin counties, in the Mississippi House of Representatives since 2008. During his legislative service, Gipson acted as the chairman of the Country Fried Steak

4 (4 ounce) cube steaks
1/2 teaspoon salt, divided
1 3/4 teaspoons ground black pepper, divided
1 cup all-purpose flour
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1/4 cup lard
1 cup milk

Season meat with 1/4 teaspoon of the salt and 1/4 teaspoon of the pepper; set aside. In a shallow dish, mix flour with 1 teaspoon of the pepper. Dredge each steak in flour. Dip in beaten egg, then dredge in flour again. Heat lard in a large, heavy skillet over medium-high heat. Fry steaks 3 to 4 minutes on each side, or until golden brown. Drain on paper towels. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons of the fat. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons of the dredging flour into oil. Cook over medium heat for 1 minute, scraping up any browned bits from the bottom of skillet. Gradually whisk in milk. Cook, stirring frequently, 3 to 4 minutes, or until thickened and bubbly. Add 1/4 teaspoon salt, and 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoons pepper; gravy should be quite peppery.

Grandmother's Buttermilk Cornbread

1/2 cup butter
2/3 cup white sugar
2 eggs
1 cup buttermilk
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup cornmeal
1 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F (175 degrees C). Grease an 8 inch square pan. Melt butter in large skillet. Remove from heat and stir in sugar. Quickly add eggs and beat until well blended. Combine buttermilk with baking soda and stir into mixture in pan. Stir in cornmeal, flour, and salt until well blended and few lumps remain. Pour batter into the prepared pan. Bake in the preheated oven for 30 to 40 minutes, or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean.

Southern as You Can Get Collard Greens

1 bunch collard greens - rinsed, trimmed and chopped
2 smoked ham hocks
2 (10.5 ounce) cans condensed chicken broth
21 fluid ounces water
1 tablespoon distilled white vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste

Place the collard greens and ham hocks in a large pot. Mix in the chicken broth, water, and vinegar. Season with salt and pepper. Bring to a boil, reduce heat to low, and simmer 1 hour.

Southern-Style Crowder Peas

1 pinch dried thyme
1 crushed bay leaf
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt to taste
2 slices cooked ham, cubed
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
4 slices bacon
1 small onion, chopped
1 small green bell pepper, chopped
1 (16 ounce) package frozen crowder peas
2 cups water
1 tablespoon garlic powder

Place bacon in a skillet over medium-high heat, and cook until evenly brown. Drain and crumble. Mix onion and green bell pepper into the skillet, and cook until tender. Stir in peas and water. Season with garlic powder, thyme, bay leaf, and seasoned salt. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low, and simmer 30 to 40 minutes, until peas are tender. Mix ham into the skillet. Adjust seasonings to taste. Continue cooking 5 minutes. Stir in fresh parsley just before serving.

Southern Candied Sweet Potatoes

6 large sweet potatoes
1/2 cup butter
2 cups white sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
Salt to taste

Peel the sweet potatoes and cut them into slices. Melt the butter in a heavy skillet and add the sliced sweet potatoes. Mix the sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Cover the sweet potatoes with sugar mixture and stir. Cover skillet, reduce heat to low and cook for about 1 hour or until potatoes are "candied." They should be tender but a little hard around the edges. Also the sauce will turn dark. You will need to stir occasionally during the cooking. Stir in the vanilla just before serving. Serve hot.

Hope Reigns as Farmers Begin 2018 Plantings

By Linda Breazeale
MSU Extension Service

Rains may delay field work, but they don't dampen farmers' optimism for 2018.

Along with plantings that have already taken place, another sign of the new season is the release of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Prospective Plantings report. Released at the end of March every year, this report estimates planting acres for state and national crops.

Brian Williams, an agricultural economist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said most of the crop markets are steady at year-ago levels.

"We are still looking at large supplies for most of our major crops, and demand has also been quite strong," he said. "The one exception is cotton. Cotton markets are much better than a year ago."

Mississippi State University Extension Service small grain specialist Erick Larson, right, oversees student workers Christian Singleton, near, and Nolan Stapleton as they pour corn into seed hoppers on March 28, 2018. They will plant the corn in research plots at the R.R. Foil Plant Science Research Center in Starkville, Mississippi. (Photo by MSU Extension Service/Kevin Hudson)

Cotton…

The national cotton acreage is forecast to increase 858,000 acres to almost 13.5 million acres, but USDA projected a 50,000 acre decrease for Mississippi for a total 580,000 acres. Only three states are seeing lower acreage this year: Mississippi, Louisiana and Virginia.

"Cotton markets are faring quite well this year, so a decrease in the state's cotton acreage surprises me," Williams said. "December cotton futures are trading close to 77 cents a pound while it was in the low 70s a year ago."

MSU Extension cotton specialist Darrin Dodds said he expects 2018 to have the highest acreage since 2006.

"It would not surprise me to see 650,000-700,000 acres. We might have seen that amount last year, but May 2017 was a challenging month for planting," he said. "By the time conditions became more favorable, we were so deep into spring that growers weren't comfortable putting that seed in the ground."

Because cotton prices have been respectable, Dodds said other commodities should not be eating into cotton acres until their prices improve.

"If the weather is right, some producers will start planting in the third week of April," Dodds said. "More rain would push planting into the first week of May, which is when most cotton planting has occurred in the last five years."

Soybeans…

USDA estimated a 10,000-acre increase in Mississippi's soybean acreage to bring the state to 2.2 million acres. The national crop may be down 1.16 million acres for a total of almost 89 million acres.

Extension soybean specialist Trent Irby said he did not expect a major change in planted acreage compared to last year for the state's largest crop. Commodity prices will usually dictate any major shifts in soybean planting decisions. Planting began one to two weeks ahead of normal, and most soybeans will go into the ground in April and May, depending on weather conditions.

"Soybean growers had a record-breaking state average yield of 53 bushels per acre last year, thanks to weather conditions that allowed for early planting and favorable rainfall through much of the growing season as well as overall good crop management," Irby said.

Williams said Greenville soybeans are trading at $10.04 per bushel, compared to $9.36 a year ago at this time.

"The main driver behind this is continued strong export demand for soybeans," he said. "We should see a few more acres of soybeans this year for a couple of reasons. First, soybeans have seen more strength in the markets due to the strong demand, but also soybeans are a lower-cost crop to produce. The low cost of production makes soybeans look more favorable when margins are tight to begin with."

Corn…

USDA predicts a national decline of 2.1 million acres of corn to 88 million acres. Mississippi acreage may be down 30,000 acres for a total of 490,000 acres.

Erick Larson, grain crops specialist with the MSU Extension Service, said considerable corn planting started the third week of March, especially in the Delta, or other regions that didn't get much rain the week prior.

"Farmers know early planting is key to high yields, but often struggle to make progress when spring rains keep fields too wet to plant," Larson said. "We had a favorable planting season in 2017, along with low nighttime temperatures and plenty of rain during the reproductive stages in June and July. All of those factors contributed to record corn yields last year."

Williams said Greenville cash corn is trading for $3.81 per bushel compared to $3.83 at this time a year ago, so prices are hovering at about the same level.

Rice…

"On the other hand, rice prices are higher when compared to a year ago," Williams said. "Prices are trading just under $12.50 per hundredweight compared to closer to $9.50 a year ago at this time. As a result, I expect to see more rice planted this year compared to 2017."

USDA is forecasting 120,000 acres of rice in Mississippi, up 5,000 acres.

Bobby Golden, rice specialist at the MSU Delta Research and Extension Center in Stoneville, said the 2017 rice yields were around 164 bushels per acre, just under the state record and one of the best years in the last few seasons.

"Most enthusiasm for rice is likely coming from our success last year," Golden said. "Planting started about five days ahead of normal. Heavy rains could cause some significant planting delays."

Peanuts…

Williams described predicting peanut acreage as "tricky," but he said the addition of a new cottonseed policy may be to blame for fewer acres available for peanuts.

USDA is forecasting 30,000 acres of peanuts in the state, down 14,000 acres or 32 percent. The national decline is 18 percent from 2017.

Grain sorghum…

Grain sorghum, which is the last crop to be planted in the spring, will not see an increase this year. Low prices and production challenges have discouraged growers from planting grain sorghum in recent years. USDA estimates Mississippi farmers will plant 5,000 acres.

Sweet potatoes…

Sweet potato acreage is level with 2017 at 30,000 acres. Nationally, acreage is down 2 percent.

Wheat…

Planted last fall, winter wheat needs a few more months before harvest. Wheat acreage is up slightly, but has trended down in recent years.

Stand Up and Be Counted

By Esmerelda Dickson
State Statistician - USDA/NASS

USDA, National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) wants producers to Stand UP and Be Counted!!

NASS mailed over 60,000 census forms in Mississippi to identify potential producers in the state and to collect the information about their operations that is necessary to help shape the future of American agriculture. Without a true representation of what Mississippi's diverse agriculture looks like – catfish, small fruit and vegetable growers, cattle producers, organic and urban farmers to row crop farmers – large and small – Mississippi could possibly lose out on federal monies.

Remember, the Census of Agriculture is your voice, your future, and your opportunity.

Cogongrass Control

Cogongrass ranks as the world's seventh worst noxious weed and has been detected in 66 of Mississippi 82 counties. Cogongrass quickly invades areas of low management like abandoned fields, highway rights of way, utility rights of way, and commercial forest plantations.

The Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce (MDAC)/ Bureau of Plant Industry (BPI) continues to assist landowners in combating this noxious weed through its Control Demonstration Program. Through this program, MDAC provides herbicide to landowners in Mississippi at no charge. MDAC also provides treatment guidelines and spray options on how and when to apply the herbicide.

Landowners detecting Cogongrass on their property can apply to participate by submitting an application to BPI. The application can be found on the MDAC website at http://www.mdac.ms.gov/wp-content/uploads/bpi_plant_cogongrass.pdf, at your local Mississippi State University Extension Service office or your local USDA Natural Resource Conservation Service office. For more information, please contact Denise Clanton at 662-325-8147 or DeniseC@mdac.ms.gov.

Alliance Field Day Set For April 20

By MSU Extension Service

Mississippi producers will receive training on irrigation practices during an April 20 field day.

The Alliance of Sustainable Farms will hold its Drip Irrigation and Plastic Mulch Laying field day on the National Center for Appropriate Technology demonstration farm at the Piney Woods School. The workshop will provide information on ecologically sound and profitable production practices.

Along with drip irrigation and plastic mulch laying, the workshop will also include transplanting demonstrations.

The field day is free, but preregistration is required. Onsite check-in begins at 10 a.m. The program begins at 10:30 a.m. and ends at 2:30 p.m. Participants should wear comfortable clothing and shoes.

The Piney Woods School is located at 5096 Highway 49 in Piney Woods, about 20 miles south of Jackson. The school's main entrance is closed. Take Cox 40 Road north of the main entrance, and then take the first right. The classroom is located in the barn.

The demonstration farm is part of the National Center for Appropriate Technology's multifaceted food justice project, which is working to improve access to healthy, culturally appropriate food for historically disadvantaged communities throughout Mississippi.

To register for the field day, email AllianceofSustainableFarms@gmail.com.

Governor Phil Bryant Appoints Cindy Hyde-Smith to U.S. Senate

By the Office of Gov. Phil Bryant

Gov. Phil Bryant announced on March 21, 2018, that he was appointing Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Cindy Hyde-Smith to the United States Senate. Commissioner Hyde-Smith would replace Sen. Thad Cochran, who was retiring after nearly 50 years of service to the state of Mississippi.

Commissioner Hyde-Smith's appointment became effective on April 2.

"Commissioner Hyde-Smith has worked tirelessly on behalf of the men and women in agriculture, Mississippi's largest industry and a treasured way of life in our state," Gov. Bryant said. "Her intellect, compassion, toughness and determination to get things done exemplify everything Mississippi needs in the United States Senate. I know she will continue to faithfully serve every Mississippian in her new role."

Commissioner Hyde-Smith was elected commissioner of agriculture and commerce by Mississippi voters in November 2011, following a 12-year career as a state senator representing District 39. With her election, Commissioner Hyde-Smith made Mississippi history as the first woman to ever be elected to the statewide position.

"I am truly humbled and honored that Gov. Phil Bryant has asked me to serve as your next U.S. Senator. I am eager and excited to get to Washington to begin work on issues that are important to every Mississippian. I am extremely grateful for the work of Senator Thad Cochran. His contributions to the state of Mississippi have been invaluable," Commissioner Hyde-Smith said.

Elected to the Mississippi State Senate in 1999, Commissioner Hyde-Smith quickly became known as a passionate advocate of farmers and ranchers in Mississippi, serving as chairwoman of the Agriculture Committee for eight years and as an influential member of numerous other committees. She has authored legislation and supported efforts to promote and protect all facets of the agriculture industry, defending private property rights, endorsing right-to-farm legislation, and working to increase country-of-origin labeling requirements.

Commissioner Hyde-Smith successfully advocated for USDA inspection of catfish to ensure food safety and equity in the marketplace and secured funding for investments in infrastructure to generate economic activity. Through her leadership roles as President of the Southern Association of States Departments of Agriculture and the Southern US Trade Association, Commissioner Hyde-Smith has been on the forefront of national and regional issues impacting agriculture. Her service as the Co-chairman of the Agriculture Policy Advisory Council for President Donald Trump has been instrumental in ensuring Mississippi farmers and ranchers a voice during key decision making.

Commissioner Hyde-Smith has received numerous awards and honors for her exemplary leadership, including the Distinguished Service Award, Agriculture Legislator of the Year and Agriculture Ambassador of the Year from the Mississippi Farm Bureau and was named a 2017 Women in Leadership Honoree from the Governing Institute.
