New Year's Traditions and Resolutions

By Allie Ware Jasper
Communications Manager - MDAC

We have really high expectations for you year 2022! After recent years, we are looking forward to a change of pace. The New Year's holiday is often seen as a fresh start, a chance to start over or make changes in our lives. All around the world people celebrate the close of one year and the beginning of another with different celebrations and odd traditions.

Here in the South, we are no strangers to superstitious rituals. We eat our leafy greens, pork, black-eyed peas and cornbread all hoping for fortune and wealth in the coming year, but there are many more good luck formalities to ring in the New Year.

In my own family, we hide money outside on New Year's Eve and go back out on New Year's Day to find it and bring it inside. It signifies bringing money into the home on the first day of a new year. I have no clue where this custom originated. We may be the only family who does it, but rest assured, before the clock strikes midnight, there are sums of money hidden around the yard that keeps us hoping to strike it rich the next year.

We all know about the smooch at midnight, right? It's said to have begun in Rome where lavish parties full of kissing would be held. According to English and German superstition, kissing the one you love at midnight will ensure an entire year of affection from them. Other folklore points to a year of loneliness without that midnight kiss.

Some people don't believe in tidying up anything on the first day of the year. There are myths that doing laundry on January 1st will wash a loved one away. Meaning someone in your home may die in the next 12 months. Sweeping is also a bad idea for many believers you'll "sweep out all the good luck!" It's also customary for many to open windows and doors to "let the old year out."

In New York, there is practice of smashing a peppermint pig. Everyone takes a turn hitting the candy and breaking off a small piece to eat for good fortune.

Colombians pack light on the first day of the year as to not start a new year with heavy baggage. Some super committed people will take an empty suitcase and run around the block in hopes of a year of travel.

If you are in Puerto Rico for the first of the year, watch your head! Some there believe dumping a bucket of water out the window drives away evil spirits. Puerto Ricans may also sprinkle some sugar at the door to invite in the good spirits.

In Brazil, everyone wears white for luck and peace. The color white is said to symbolize purity and new beginnings.

In Denmark, people literally leap into the New Year by jumping off chairs at midnight to banish bad spirits.

Every culture in every corner of the world has their own way to ring in the New Year. Some people may really hope for these traditions to bring them wealth or luck, but for me, it's always been about the memories. Families being together and taking part in their own little secret rituals, laughing, and remembering for years to come is what makes the holiday special. Whether you are superstitious or not, we hope you spend time creating a memory that will last a lifetime as we say good bye to 2021.

From Our Kitchen To Yours

New Year's Foods for Good Luck!

*****

Slow Cooker Black-Eyed Peas and Collard Greens

1 pound dried black-eyed peas, sorted and rinsed
2 pounds collard greens
8 ounces bacon, or ham, diced
1 large onion, coarsely chopped
3 cloves garlic, chopped
4 cups low-sodium or unsalted chicken stock
3 tablespoons tomato paste
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 large, dried bay leaves
1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
Kosher salt, to taste
Black pepper, to taste

Wash the collard greens in 3-4 changes of water, until there is absolutely no grit on the bottom of the sink. Cut thick stems out of the greens and chop the leaves or cut them crosswise into strips. If using bacon, sauté until cooked through but not crisp in a large skillet. Remove the bacon to paper towels to drain. Add the chopped onion to the skillet and cook until soft. Combine the beans, bacon, onions, garlic, chicken stock, tomato paste, vinegar, bay leaves and red pepper flakes in the slow cooker. The liquid should cover the top of the beans. Combine the beans, bacon, onions, garlic, chicken stock, tomato paste, vinegar, bay leaves and red pepper flakes in slow cooker. Cover the crockpot and cook on low for 6-7 hours. Add the greens, then cook for one more hour. Taste and adjust seasonings with salt and freshly ground black pepper, as needed. Source: TheSpruceEats.com.

Southern Turnip Greens With Ham Shanks

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 cup chopped onion
2 to 3 smoked ham shanks
2 cloves garlic (minced)
2 cups chicken broth
1 pound well-washed and chopped greens
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
Dash cayenne pepper
Salt, to taste

Heat oil in a large Dutch oven or kettle over medium heat; add onion and cook, stirring, until softened and translucent. Add the ham shanks and cook for about 6 minutes, turning the shanks a few times. Add garlic and chicken broth. Bring to a boil; reduce heat to medium-low, cover, and simmer for 30 minutes. Remove ham shanks with a slotted spoon. Put the washed turnip greens in the liquid, a few handfuls at a time, until all are in the pot. Add the sugar and peppers. Remove the bones from the ham and dice or shred the meat; return the ham pieces to the pot. Bring greens to a boil. Reduce heat to medium-low and simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Cover and simmer for about 30 minutes longer, or until the greens are very tender. Taste and add salt if needed. Source: TheSpruceEats.com.

1/4 cup bacon drippings
2 cups self-rising cornmeal mix
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
2 large eggs, lightly beaten
1 1/2 cups buttermilk
Butter

Place bacon drippings in cast-iron skillet; heat in oven 5 minutes. Combine cornmeal mix and baking soda; make a well in center of mixture. Stir together eggs and buttermilk; add to dry mixture, stirring just until moistened. Remove skillet from oven; tilt skillet in all directions to coat bottom. Pour hot drippings into batter, whisking to blend. Pour batter into hot skillet. Bake at 425° for 27 minutes or until golden brown. Invert cornbread onto a serving plate; cut into wedges. Serve hot with butter. Source: SouthernLiving.com.

Phase 1 of Magnolia Gardens is complete, and it is beautiful! Located at the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum in Jackson, Miss. This project is 100% doner funded and is a beautiful way to honor the achievements such as graduation, promotions, excellence in work, birthdays, anniversaries, new baby, retirement, and any special occasion you can imagine. You can also donate in memory of a loved one.

All donations go directly to the Gardens for beautification and for maintenance. For every donation we will mail certificates to the honoree and to the designated person for memorial gifts. You will receive an acknowledgement letter for your contribution.

Please contact Ginger Williamson, ginger@mdac.ms.gov or 601-359-1150 with questions or go to www.Msmagnoliagardens.com or scan the code to go directly to the contribution page. Thank you for choosing Magnolia Gardens to honor and to memorialize your loved ones.

For six decades, patrons have contributed funds in exchange for a magnolia tree planted in honor of or in memory of loved ones. Over the years the program has planted tens of thousands of magnolia trees along state highways. Due to new regulations, the program needed adjustments. Enjoy the beautiful garden created in honor of your loved ones located at the Mississippi Ag and Forestry Museum in Jackson, Mississippi.

The main garden has a formal design incorporating a variety of plants, trees, flora, stone, water, and wood. The gardens will be strategically lighted to enhance the beauty of the design at night. Enjoy the lush landscape encircling the bronze "Working Man" sculpture donated to the Ag Museum in 2011. Relax on the cypress wood seating to enjoy the container gardens and water features framed with cypress shutters. Floral beds offer seasonal beauty outside of the central area.

The goal is to complete the entire project in 2021, honoring the 60th anniversary of Magnolia Gardens, formerly known as Avenue of Magnolias. We thank you for your contributions thus far. In order to complete the gardens, including the Avenue of Magnolias, $150,000.00 in additional funds are needed.

All donations, regardless of amount, will receive a letter acknowledging their donation. Recipients will receive our Magnolia Garden certificate honoring their loved ones.

Donations exceeding $5,000 will be acknowledged with a plaque at the garden site.

Downtown Jackson Saddles Up for the Annual Dixie National Parade

By Hannah East
Marketing Specialist - MDAC

Preparations for the 57th annual Dixie National Livestock Show and Rodeo are underway at the Mississippi State Fairgrounds, along with the beloved Dixie National Parade. This family-friendly event features a procession of rodeo queens, antique cars and tractors, festive floats, mounted horses and the famous Dixie National Wagon Train throughout the streets of downtown Jackson. The theme for the 2022 Dixie National Parade is the ‘Spirit of America,’ which will be held on Saturday, February 12, at 10:30 a.m.

“I want to invite everyone to make their way to Mississippi State Fairgrounds this year for the 57th Dixie National Livestock Show and Rodeo, said Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Andy Gipson. “We are excited for this month-long exhibition of livestock shows, rodeo competitions, musical entertainment and agricultural expos. In partnership with our title sponsor, Southern AgCredit, the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce has worked to make the ‘Greatest Show on Dirt’ even bigger and better than ever. As is custom, the annual Dixie National Parade will kick off the first weekend of the rodeo. So, make plans to come out for this incredible event the whole family will enjoy.” Leading the way from the corner of Mississippi and Jefferson Streets, the parade procession will continue down Mississippi Street, circle the Capitol and finally take a left on to Amite Street before returning to the fairgrounds. For the best views, onlookers can watch from the Capitol grounds near President, High and West Streets. Following the parade, awards will be presented to the winning parade groups at the Mississippi Farmers Market at 12:00 p.m. For more information on the Dixie National Livestock Show and Rodeo or to participate in the Dixie National ‘Spirit of America’ Parade, visit www.dixienational.org today!

Crape Myrtle Upkeep Does Not Include Murder

By Dr. Gary R. Bachman
MSU Extension Service

As gardeners make New Year’s resolutions for their landscapes in 2022, I want to encourage all of them to resolve to correctly prune crape myrtles from this day forward. In the current vernacular, severe pruning of crape myrtles is called “crape murder,” reflecting the seemingly random nature of the pruning cuts. To me, this type of pruning is very unattractive in the landscape. But first, I’m going to play devil’s advocate concerning crape murder. The practice of severely cutting crape myrtles back is actually an old pruning practice called pollarding, which is used to control the size of large trees. Trees such as oak, elm, tulip popular and sycamore that normally grow to 100 feet tall can be cut back to 20 or 30 feet so they can grow in a restricted planting area. Annually pruning these large trees at the same location results in the formation of knobs of tissue, called pollard heads.

Pollarding was never intended to maintain the size of a crape myrtle to make it 5 feet tall with pollard knobs. The trouble happens because crape myrtles are extremely resilient. Since they bloom on the current season’s growth, bad pruning is glossed over annually. But just because you can do something doesn’t make it right. To be clear on this, I don’t have any issues with homeowners who like the look of pollarded crape myrtles. My reason is simple: These crapes are being severely pruned with a purpose. I save my objections for gardeners who murder their crapes because they think that is the proper way to control the trees’ size. This misconception is reinforced as many professional landscape maintenance companies handle crape myrtle size in this way. These gardeners are not consciously practicing the ancient art of pollarding. They are following this practice because it’s a lot quicker and can be done with laser precision. Zip, zap and they’re off to the next job. Homeowners see this and assume if the professionals are doing it, then it must be correct. Heavy pruning does control the size of the crape myrtle, but it can’t be used to control shape. In fact, pollarding destroys the tree’s natural form. Crape myrtles have a range of natural shapes available, depending on the variety selected. The main problem with the extreme pruning of crape myrtles occurs when someone has planted a large-growing variety in a space better suited to a small-growing tree. One old adage says the “wrong plant is in the wrong place.” Another that applies and here is “two wrongs do not make a right.” If crape myrtles are correctly sized for the planting location, they do not need major pruning every year. However, every crape myrtle does need minimal, selective pruning to remove seed heads and tidy up the tree up by occasionally removing misshaped or damaged branches. When selecting a crape myrtle for your landscape, consider the mature size you want, and wisely choose a selection that meets those criteria. For example, if you want a white-flowering crape myrtle, there are many different varieties you can choose with varying mature heights: Pixie White, 3 feet; Delta Moonlight, 10 feet; Acoma, 14 feet; Byers White, 20 feet; and Natchez, 30 feet. For more information on the proper care -- this includes pruning -- and feeding of crape myrtles for Mississippi landscapes, see Mississippi State University Extension Publication 2007, “Crape Myrtle: Flower of the South,” <http://extension.msstate.edu/publications/publications/crapemyrtle-flower-the-south>.
