National Dairy Month Brings Value for Both Body and Budget

By SUDIA
Southeast United Dairy Industry
Association, Inc.

As Americans continue to cut costs in the current economic environment, leading nutrition experts fear many will do so at the expense of a nutritious diet. Reliable, affordable sources of nutrients will be more important than ever as a majority of Americans are overweight and many are undernourished.

June is National Dairy Month, a great opportunity for Americans to recognize that low-fat and fat-free dairy foods present a unique combination of both nutritional and economic value. Now is the time to remember the recommendation to get three servings of dairy daily - not only milk, but also cheese and yogurt, since these foods also are valuable and tasty sources of essential nutrients.

Families these days are looking to get the most nutrition they can with their food budget. Dairy is a naturally nutrient-rich food group that, for the most part, comes at a low cost -- often just pennies per serving. One eight-ounce glass of milk for example provides nine essential nutrients: calcium, potassium, phosphorus, protein, vitamins A, D, and B12, riboflavin, and niacin (niacin equivalents).

In honor of National Dairy Month, here are some important facts about milk, cheese, and yogurt and the family farmers who supply them:

Health Benefits for Life

Only 30 percent of Americans meet their recommended intake of calcium, and the U.S. Surgeon General's office predicts that by 2020, half of all Americans older than 50 will be at risk for fractures from osteoporosis and low bone mass. Dairy foods can help close the gap as they supply not only calcium, but also potassium, magnesium, and vitamin A, nutrients that most Americans under-consume. Milk is also the No. 1 source of calcium, potassium, phosphorus, and vitamin D in the American diet.

Research supports that enjoying three servings of milk, cheese, or yogurt each day as part of a nutrient-rich, balanced diet may help maintain a healthy weight. At least 45 observational studies exploring dietary intake patterns and body weight report that dairy foods play a beneficial role in healthy weight.

Research shows the low-fat Dietary Approaches to Stop Hypertension (DASH) eating plan, which includes two to three servings of dairy foods and eight to ten servings of fruits and vegetables, may help manage blood pressure. A trio of minerals--calcium, potassium, and magnesium--all found in dairy foods as part of the DASH eating plan may play an important role in maintaining healthy blood pressure.

Dedication to Children's Health

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, in 2003-2004, an estimated 18 percent of American children were overweight and another 35 percent were at risk for becoming overweight. Over the next five years, dairy farmers will invest $250 million to help fight childhood obesity in schools by supporting access to naturally nutrient-rich foods, providing nutrition education, and encouraging physical fitness.

Commitment to a Healthy Environment

It is estimated that the dairy industry accounts for less than 2 percent of total U.S. greenhouse gas emissions, an amount that the industry continues working to reduce. Dairy foods provide essential nutrients including nearly 75 percent of the calcium naturally available in the food supply, making every glass of milk a good choice for people and the planet.

Dairy farmers and processors are currently launching 12 initiatives across the dairy supply chain which, when implemented, will reduce carbon dioxide by 3.2 million metric tons -- equal to eliminating the emissions generated from using 363 million gallons of gasoline.

The dairy industry has committed to reducing greenhouse gas emissions by 25 percent by 2020 -- equivalent to taking more than 1.25 million passenger cars off the road every year.

MSU Students Win at National Dairy Event

By Bonnie Coblentz
MSU Ag Communications

Mississippi State University animal and dairy science majors maintained the university's tradition of excellence in dairy competitions with a gold award at the Ninth Annual North American Intercollegiate Dairy Challenge.

The event was held April 9-10 in Visalia, California, hosted by California Polytechnic State University and California State University, Fresno. MSU was one of 28 teams from the United States and Canada that competed.

MSU's team was coached by animal and dairy science assistant professor Stephanie Hill. Other team members were Angel Henderson, Elaine Suever, Samantha Vitale, and Andrew Nelson.

The event was a two-day competition for dairy science students to apply theory and learning to a real-world dairy. The teams spent their first day at one of four assigned dairies receiving information about the dairy, its production, and farm management. Teams inspected the dairy and interviewed herd managers. They then developed a farm analysis and presentation, including recommendations for nutrition, reproduction, milking procedures, animal health, housing, and financial management.

They made their presentations to the panel of judges the second day and fielded questions from the judges. Presentations were evaluated based on the students' analysis and recommendations. A set of platinum first and second place awards were given at each dairy, along with gold and silver awards.

MSU's team won a gold award for its analysis and presentation of information on the visit to Hollywood Dairy.

Workshop Teaches New Uses For Catfish Ponds

By Bonnie Coblenz
MSU Ag Communications

Owners of retired catfish ponds and current catfish pond owners looking to reduce their pond acreage can benefit from a June 16 workshop that explores ways to develop former aquaculture ponds into natural resource enterprises.

Developing Catfish Ponds into Natural Resource Enterprises is being offered in Stoneville through the Mississippi State University Extension Service. It will be held from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Capps Center at MSU's Delta Research and Extension Center and at Indian Lakes Hunting Club in Bolivar County. The MSU Natural Resources Enterprises program is sponsoring this event, along with Delta Wildlife and several private, state, and federal agencies.

Jimmy Avery, Extension aquaculture leader, said the value of catfish ponds has decreased as high feed prices and increased foreign competition have shrunk profit margins.

"If a catfish farmer can increase the overall value of his land holdings by diversifying their use, perhaps that farmer will be able to raise catfish on at least some portion of his land," Avery said. "For the last six years, this industry has fought through various means to keep ponds in production.

"This workshop does not signify that we are conceding that fight. Creating income from a source other than fish sales allows him to continue to farm," he said.

Jim Steeby, Extension aquaculture specialist, said the goal of the workshop is to teach landowners how to diversify their land use, create additional income, and improve wildlife habitat on their property.

"About 15,000 acres of catfish ponds were retired in 2009, and we expect more ponds to be retired this year," Steeby said. "We are trying to work with owners on uses for these retired ponds. Many are eligible for the Conservation Reserve Program or the Wetlands Reserve Program, and this workshop will teach them about other options that may be available."

Landowners, bankers, realtors, and others looking to improve habitat conditions or generate income from retired catfish ponds are encouraged to attend.

The day begins at 8 a.m. in Choctaw with a tour of the Indian Lakes Hunting Club. Participants will see existing catfish ponds that were modified for wildlife habitat conservation and management and are now used for recreational fishing, wildlife watching, and birding.

Afternoon sessions will be held at the Capps Center. Topics include revenue potential from natural resource enterprises, liability and legal considerations, marketing and clientele preferences, wildlife habitat management, recreational fishing, and business management.

NRCS Announces Initiative To Provide Emergency Tornado Assistance (ETA)

By Jeannine May
Public Information Officer, USDA

Individuals and communities in portions of Mississippi that sustained damages from tornadoes might be eligible for federal assistance from the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) through the special Emergency Tornado Assistance (ETA) Initiative," said Dr. Homer Wilkes, State Conservationist, for the Natural Resources Conservation Service in Mississippi. Applications are being accepted through June 18, 2010. While this is a continuous signup, applications for 2010 funding must be received by the cut-off date.

NRCS has set aside one-half million dollars through the Environmental Quality Incentive Program (EQIP) to respond to the emergencies created by the recent tornadoes. This special Emergency Tornado Assistance Initiative is for assisting participants with re-planting and site preparation of forestry resources damaged during the April and May storms. If we do not use all the funds towards forestry concerns, any excess money will be made available to participants for land conservation structures. The Emergency Tornado Assistance Initiative is ONLY available on tracts of land damaged by tornadoes in the following counties: Warren, Yazoo, Attala, Holmes, Choctaw, Monroe, Lauderdale, Jasper, Smith, Kemper, Benton, Tippah, Lafayette, Tishomingo, Prentiss, Oktibbeha, Issaquena, Union, and Alcorn.

The measures that are taken must be environmentally and economically sound and generally benefit forestry and possibly sedimentation resources.

Federal funds may cover up to 75 percent of the re-planting and site preparation of forestry resources damaged by the storms.

To request ETA program assistance or to get more information about the program, contact your local Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) office.

USDA Offers Transition Incentives To Help Retiring and Beginning Farmers

By Latrice Hill
Public Relations & Outreach Specialist, USDA

Michael R. Sullivan, State Executive Director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Mississippi, announced that sign up is underway for the Transition Incentives Program (TIP) - a new program under the Conservation Title of the 2008 Farm Bill - to encourage retired or retiring owners or operators to transition their land to beginning or socially disadvantaged farmers or ranchers.

"Ensuring that our nation's land is returned to production using sustainable methods is critical not only for our future food supply, but also for the economic future of our rural communities," said Sullivan. "Access to land is one of the greatest challenges faced by new farmers. The Transition Incentives Program is one more tool in the USDA toolkit to protect family farms and support beginning and socially disadvantaged farmers."

If all program requirements are met, TIP provides annual rental payments to the retiring farmer for up to two additional years after the date of the expiration of the CRP contract, provided the transition is not to a family member. To learn more about the program, producers interested in applying and participating in TIP should visit their local FSA county office or www.fsa.usda.gov. To be eligible, TIP requires that the retired or retiring farmer or rancher:

- Have land enrolled in the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) that is in the last year of the contract.
- Agree to allow the beginning or socially disadvantaged farmer or rancher make conservation and land improvements.
- Agree to sell, have a contract to sell, or agree to long-term lease (a minimum of 5 years) the land under CRP contract to the beginning or socially disadvantaged farmer or rancher by Oct. 1 of the year the CRP contract expires.

Rosetti Receives Top Cop Award

By Robert Jordan, Director
Mississippi Agricultural and Livestock Theft Bureau

As a nation, we rely on law enforcement officers to keep our neighborhoods safe, enforce our laws, and respond in times of crisis. These men and woman sustain peace and order across America, and we look to them as models of courage and integrity.

A Presidential Proclamation designated May 15, 2010, as Peace Officers Memorial Day and May 9 through May 15, 2010, as Police Week.

On this special day, the Mississippi Center for Police and Sheriffs, the Central Mississippi Crime Stoppers Board, along with many businesses and private supporters, teamed with Jackson metro and state law enforcement agencies to pay tribute to those who serve in law enforcement and especially remember those who have made the ultimate sacrifice.

During a luncheon held at the Mississippi Trade Mart, many area and state agencies named their "Top Cop." The Mississippi Agricultural and Livestock Theft Bureau named Investigator Nick Rosetti as its officer of the year. Rosetti has served with the Agricultural Theft Bureau since its inception in 1993, and is responsible for investigating agricultural-related crimes in the six coastal area counties of the state. Rosetti received the award, in part, for his work on a six-month criminal investigation resulting in the arrest of Harold E. Simmons of Saucier on three counts of timber theft.

Simmons had been contracted to harvest timber from 16th Section land, which is set aside to help fund school districts. He is accused of under reporting that harvest and pocketing about $375,000 from the stolen timber.

"He was under contract to cut these 16th sections, on a pay as-cut contract, and he wasn't paying for all the timber that he was removing from the tract," said Nick Rosetti. "Basically, it totaled about 11,000 tons in missing timber, over 300 truck loads."

The theft affected both the Poplarville and Pearl River County school districts. Poplarville had timber estimated at $368,334 taken from two parcels; Pearl River County lost an estimated $4,393 from one parcel.

The case, which was a joint investigation with the Secretary of State's Office and the Mississippi Forestry Commission, will be presented to the June term of the Pearl River County Grand Jury.

High Winds a Cause of Concern For Farmers

By John Gordon Campbell
Deputy Director
Bureau of Plant Industry, MDAC

The Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce urges farmers to practice extreme caution when making pesticide applications this spring when especially high winds increase the chance of pesticide drift. Applicators are reminded to pay close attention to wind speed, direction, and the distance to neighboring crops and other sensitive areas before spraying.

In the interest of public and environmental safety, Bureau of Plant Industry inspectors are actively patrolling the state to monitor pesticide applications. Individuals who are observed spraying in high winds or in a negligent manner will be cited. Penalties for these negligent applications can be up to $5,000 per violation.

Current state regulations prohibit aerial applicators from making any herbicide applications in winds exceeding 10 miles per hour and require individuals utilizing ground spray equipment to follow wind restrictions as indicated on the pesticide label.

If you have any questions, please contact the Bureau of Plant Industry at 662-325-3390.

Pasture To Plate

By Sammy Blossom
Executive Vice President
Mississippi Cattlemen's Association

For the Simpson County Cattlemen's Association, educating the public about where the beef on your plate comes from and how it gets there is a breeze. Their cooking team participated in the First South Farm Credit Grilling Contest held during the Dixie National Livestock Show and Rodeo in Jackson. During their second year of competition at this contest, the Simpson County team not only used a skit that portrayed a consumer being educated on purchasing and preparing beef to aid in their contest presentation, but they also grilled samples of beef for the onlookers.

of beef at the supermarket come from, the team used a grand champion steer and outlined the primary cuts of beef on his body. The shopper was also informed about some cattle industry practices during the education experience at the meat counter. The "cattlemen" explained that all decisions and management practices on the farm are aimed at keeping his animals healthy and producing the highest quality and most wholesome beef for the consumer.

Next "food inspectors" taught about food safety and the steps that are taken to assure that every phase of processing meets strict USDA guidelines for beef safety. They showed actual cuts of beef and outlined how to handle and prepare them.

To begin with, a "consumer" approached the meat counter to select dinner for the family. There, the consumer was educated on the cuts of meat, and why some are more valued than others. The consumer was informed of quality cuts of beef that fit into a budget and how some lesser known cuts of meat, such as a Flat Iron steak, are less expensive but just as desirable as some of the more popular cuts. The consumer also learned how to select the better cuts of meat when choosing what was to be bought. To aid in demonstrating to the onlookers where cuts

Finally, all of the production, selection and preparation steps were combined as the crowd enjoyed the samples of beef that the team was providing, and the "family" sat down to their prepared meal. Spectators at the event gathered around the grill and enjoyed the end product of the pasture to plate process. After the demonstration, it came as no surprise that the Simpson County team, that included members Price Wallace; Joe, Marsha, and Britt Magee; Archie Miller, and Heath Albritton, placed first in the contest.

On May 10, 2010, to celebrate National Tourism Week the Mississippi Development Authority's Tourism Division unveiled a new tourism initiative called Mississippi Agri-Tour Trails. Pictured at the unveiling press conference were (L to R) Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Dr. Lester Spell; Nelda Mitchell, Mitchell Farms; Haley Barbour, Governor; Jo Lynn Mitchell, Mitchell Farms; Marie Shoemaker, Covington County Chamber of Commerce; and Stanley Wise, President of the Mississippi Agri-Tourism Association. This initiative is focused on educating and marketing the many agri-tourism farms and locations around the State of Mississippi.
