Mississippians looking for locally grown Christmas trees have several varieties to choose from but should be prepared to shop early for the best selection.

John Kushla, a Mississippi State University Extension Service specialist and research professor who specializes in agroforestry and Christmas trees, said there are several ways to test for freshness when choosing the perfect tree at a tree farm.

“Needles should be green, with flexible branches,” Kushla said. “If a branch tip snaps between your fingers, that tree has dried out.” Kushla emphasized the importance of taking care of the live tree once it has been placed in the home.

“It is important to place the tree in water immediately. Keep trees away from heat sources such as fireplaces or direct sunlight,” he said.

Mississippi Christmas tree growers have experienced a good growing season and favorable weather in 2018, which has resulted in a valuable crop of healthy trees.

Kushla said the highest Christmas tree sales occur on the Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving and the first Saturday and Sunday in December.

Robert Foster, owner and president of Cedar Hill Farm in DeSoto County, said the average cost is $72 per tree, or $9 to $12 per foot. Tree prices are steadily rising due to high demand, he added.

“Tree prices are going up -- especially on precuts – because younger generations who now have kids are buying more live trees instead of the fake ones,” Foster said. “Nobody can keep up with demand, which means the costs are going up.”

Foster’s parents opened the Christmas tree farm to the public in 1996. Foster and his wife, Heather, took over the family business in 2005, along with his brother, David.

Foster said that a trip to their farm is more than just picking out a Christmas tree. It is a family event that makes memories to last a lifetime.

“I’m not selling a tree as much as I’m selling the experience here. You can buy a tree anywhere that sells flowers, but it’s not the same as going to a farm and taking pictures, going on a hayride and actually cutting down the tree,” Foster said. “It’s the whole experience that makes it so memorable for everyone.”

Cedar Hill Farm offers approximately 500 choose-and-cut trees and 650 precut trees. They have many cypress varieties, such as Leland, Murray, Blue Ice and Carolina Sapphire. Christmas trees take about four to five years to grow, so it is important to manage them carefully and keep plenty in stock. The farm also has precut trees shipped in from the North, typically Frasier and Douglas firs.
Candy Cane Oreo Truffles

36 Oreo (original or mint filled)
8 ounces cream cheese, softened
16 ounces white chocolate chips, melted
1/4 cup crushed candy canes or peppermint candies, for decorating
Place the Oreo cookies in the bowl of a food processor and pulse until finely ground. Add the cream cheese and pulse until the mixture is well combined and smooth. Line a rimmed baking sheet with parchment paper. Scoop the mixture into balls about one inch in diameter. Place the cookie balls in the freezer until well chilled, at least one hour. Melt the white chocolate chips in the microwave or in a double boiler over simmering water. Remove truffles from freezer and dip in melted chocolate. Return to baking sheet and immediately sprinkle tops with crushed candy canes; allow chocolate to set. Store the truffles in an airtight container in the refrigerator for up to five days.

Microwave Hot Chocolate Fudge

2 cups dark chocolate chips
14 ounces sweetened condensed milk – divided
1 1/2 cups white chocolate chips
1 1/2 cups mini hot chocolate marshmallows
In a microwave safe bowl; combine white chocolate chips with five tablespoons sweetened condensed milk. In a separate bowl, combine dark chocolate chips with remaining sweetened condensed milk. Line a square 9x9-inch (or 8x8-inch) pan with foil and generously grease with butter or shortening. Microwave dark chocolate for 30 seconds, stir. Microwave 15 seconds longer and then stir vigorously until chocolate is smooth. Transfer mixture into prepared pan and spread into an even layer. Microwave white chocolate for 30 seconds; stir until smooth. Spread mixture on top of dark chocolate layer. (This will take some finesse to spread into a thin layer.) Top with mini marshmallows gently pressing them down. Refrigerate at least six hours to set. Remove fudge and foil from pan. Carefully peel all foil from mixture on top of dark chocolate layer. (This will take some finesse to spread into a thin layer.) Top with mini marshmallows gently pressing them down. Refrigerate at least six hours to set. Remove fudge and foil from pan. Carefully peel all foil from fudge. Cut fudge into bite sized pieces and serve.

Mom’s Best Peanut Brittle

2 cups sugar
1 cup light Karo syrup
1 cup water
2 cups raw peanuts
1/4 cup butter
1 1/2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
Extra butter for greasing cookie sheet
Grease a cookie sheet with butter and set it aside. Combine 1/4 cup butter, baking soda and vanilla in a bowl and set aside. Combine sugar, Karo syrup and water in a large saucepan over medium heat. Cook until mixture spins a thread when drizzled from your spoon. Add peanuts and stir while cooking until mixture turns light brown (approximately the same color as a paper bag). Add the butter mixture set aside earlier. Mix until butter is melted and mixture is foamy from the baking soda. Pour onto your prepared cookie sheet and use forks to spread it out as thinly as possible (approximately 1/4-inch). Let cool completely and use a butter knife to break it into pieces.

Dark Chocolate – Pecan Toffee

1 cup unsalted butter, cubed, plus more for baking sheet
1 1/2 cup pecan halves, divided
3/4 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup packed light brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon kosher salt
1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 3.5-ounce dark chocolate bar, chopped
3/4 teaspoon large flaked sea salt
Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Butter a rimmed baking sheet. Spread pecan halves on a second rimmed baking sheet and toast just until fragrant, seven to eight minutes; cool. Arrange one cup toasted pecans, flat side down, in a single layer on prepared baking sheet, leaving a two to three inch border along sides of baking sheet. Chop remaining 1/2 cup pecans; set aside. Combine butter, sugars, salt, vanilla, and 1/4 cup water in a medium saucepan. Cook over medium-low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches 290 degrees F., 18-20 minutes. Slowly pour hot caramel mixture over pecans, making sure to fully cover each nut and leaving the two to three inch border around the baking sheet. Sprinkle chocolate evenly over toffee; let sit until slightly melted. Sprinkle chocolate, in an even layer, with a small rubber scraper or offset spatula. Sprinkle with chopped pecans and sea salt. Let stand for 20 minutes, and then refrigerate until cool and set, 40 to 45 minutes. Break into small pieces.

Coconut Cream Truffles

1/4 cup butter, softened
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon coconut extract
2 tablespoons cream of coconut
Pinch of salt
1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
1 cup shredded coconut
8 ounces chocolate candy melts or semi-sweet baking chocolate
Beat butter with a hand mixer until smooth. Mix in extracts, cream of coconut and salt. Slowly add the powdered sugar until it is thoroughly combined. Stir in coconut and mix well. Drop tablespoon sized balls on a wax-paper lined cookie sheet and roll into uniform balls. Chill for at least one hour before dipping. Wrap the cookie sheet with foil and chill overnight, if needed. When ready to dip, melt candy melts according to package directions. Dip each ball into the melts, tapping off the excess, and place on a new cookie sheet lined with wax paper. If your truffles start to soften, pop them in the freezer for a few minutes before continuing. Sprinkle with coconut or sprinkles, if desired. Chill until set; store in the refrigerator. Truffles are best served at room temperature.

Mississippi Counties Designated Disaster Areas by USDA

By Paige Manning
Director of Marketing and Public Relations - MDAC

Twenty Mississippi counties have been designated as primary disaster areas by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Sonny Perdue due to crop losses caused by excessive rainfall and prolonged flooding that occurred from April 1 to June 30, 2018. Farm operators in the designated primary counties and the counties contiguous to the primary counties are eligible to be considered for certain assistance from the USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA), provided that eligibility requirements are met. This assistance includes FSA emergency loans. Farmers in eligible areas have eight months from the date of the Secretarial disaster declaration to apply for emergency loans.

“I appreciate Governor Phil Bryant’s assistance in requesting a disaster designation, and I appreciate Secretary Perdue and USDA for their prompt review and approval of our request. This designation will provide our farmers with needed assistance. I encourage our farmers in designated counties to reach out to their local FSA offices,” said Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Andy Gipson.

The primary counties named in the Secretarial disaster designation include: Adams, Alcorn, Clay, DeSoto, George, Greene, Issaquena, Itawamba, Jackson, Lee, Leflore, Lowndes, Panola, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Quitman, Stone, Tishomingo, Tunica, and Union.

Contiguous counties in Mississippi include: Benton, Calhoun, Carroll, Chickasaw, Coahoma, Forrest, Franklin, Grenada, Hancock, Harrison, Holmes, Humphreys, Jefferson, Lafayette, Marshall, Monroe, Noxubee, Oktibbeha, Pearl River, Perry, Sharkey, Sunflower, Tallahatchie, Tate, Tippah, Warren, Washington, Wayne, Webster, Wilkinson, Yalobusha, and Yazoo. Contiguous counties and parishes in the adjacent states of Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Tennessee are also included.

Farmers impacted in these areas can obtain further information from their local FSA offices.

Hollies Time Berry Color for Christmas Displays

By Dr. Gary R. Bachman
MSU Extension Service

The Christmas season is a time for decorating, as we put up wreaths, poinsettias and trees. But Mother Nature is always in on the plan, too. I love the timing that allows our landscape hollies to get into the decorating action with their bright and colorful berry displays.

The most prevalent holly berries we see right now in Mississippi are on our native yaupon holly. If you do any driving, you will see this plant on full display, as it seems to literally pop out of woodland edges everywhere. Yaupon holly has very distinctive berries. Sure, they’re red — and I mean bright, candy-apple red — but they also have a translucent quality that imparts a gem-like appearance. So, in other words, yaupon hollies are garden jewels that will sparkle in your landscape.

But yaupon hollies provide color beyond just their berries. The bark of yaupon is a bright gray that accentuates the berry color. The native yaupon holly should be a big plant, up to 20 feet tall, and its branches have a weeping, cascading growth habit. Nellie R. Stevens is a hybrid holly that is a wintertime favorite. Its leaves are a dark, glossy green year-round, and it has a nice, triangular growing habit. But the real attraction is its berry production — literally thousands of brightly colored red berries.

Nellie R. Stevens has the potential to be a big plant, up to 20 feet tall and wide. This is a tough and durable plant that will accept pruning to keep it under control, but the best practice is to plant it in a space that will accept the growth potential. Prune merely to shape and maintain the pyramidal form.

Because of the plant’s impeccable timing, the berries color up at exactly the right time and are perfect for homemade Christmas wreaths and decorative garlands. Or, why not bring some of the dazzling displays of red berries indoors? Trim some branches, and bring them indoors for a winter arrangement on the table or fireplace mantle. What can be more appropriate heading into the holiday season than decorating with something gathered from the landscape?

Along with adding beauty to our landscapes and tabletops, these winter-fruiting hollies also play an important role as a winter food source for wildlife. They also provide habitat for nesting birds. If you are looking for a way to bring seasonal color into your landscape, consider the year-round beauty of a Mississippi native yaupon holly or a beautiful hybrid.

Pecans Yields Decline, Future Looks Promising

By Linda Breazeale
MSU Extension Service

Mississippi’s pecan yields will be down from last year, but the future looks promising.

Mississippi Pecan Growers Association President Max Draughn of Raymond explained that pecan yields alternate from year to year.

“We had a strong year in 2017, so we would expect this year to be down. We may be down about 40 percent,” Draughn said. “Trees in the northern counties, mainly in the Delta, lost some yields to a late freeze. Trees in the southern counties suffered from pollination and disease problems. The coastal counties have a good crop, about 80 to 85 percent of last year’s yields, which is about where it should be after a strong year.”

Draughn said some pecan varieties are smaller than normal because of cloudy days in June and July, followed by a lack of moisture.

“Mississippi is the birthplace of the modern pecan industry dating back to the 1920s, when there were 33 pecan tree nurseries in Jackson County,” he said. “Mississippi pecan production peaked in mid-1960s with just under 40 million pounds. Then, catastrophic hurricanes and ice storms took their toll on the state’s orchards.”

In recent years, the state’s pecan industry has begun a slow rebound.

Eric Stafne, fruit and nut crops specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said growers saw a fairly typical season regarding weather, disease and insect problems.

“One of the opportunities would be if market prices are better because of the hurricane damage,” Stafne said. “It is looking like the Georgia crop will be down 50-60 percent, and Georgia is the nation’s leader in pecan production.”

Stafne said most of Mississippi’s pecans leave the state. China has been a big buyer of U.S. pecans, but those exports have bottomed out because of the tariff situation and a surplus from past years.

Extension agricultural economist Alba Collard said prices in the Atlanta market show how volatile the pecan market has been in recent decades.

“I would expect prices for 2019 to increase relative to this year’s prices,” Collard said.
