Use Mums to Give Instant Fall Colors

By Dr. Gary R. Bachman
MSU Extension Service

One the benefits of being a gardener is that most of the time, I'm paying attention to what's going on in the landscape and beyond. I've found that Mother Nature gives us clues, especially around the seasonal transitions.

There are subtle clues that summer is ending and fall is beginning. Red maples start to show tinges of reds and oranges. Each tree is different, but there is one red maple in my neighborhood that always starts to change before any others.

Another change in the landscape color palette is the arrival of mums in the nurseries and garden centers.

Some home gardeners may resist purchasing this month, as many summer annuals that were looking rough after a long, hot summer may be catching a second wind with the cooling weather. And, while I'm all for planting fall-color annuals early, they may not be quite ready yet. So consider fall mums as a bridge crop. Their colorful potential will put on an easy and reliable display for our current in-between period.

Incorporating fall garden mums into the landscape is easy. There are enough warm colors available to fit into almost any home color scheme. The plants seem to have literally hundreds of flowers, so the impact is immediate.

Now is the time to start planning how and where to effectively use these plants around your home and landscape. You have a couple of options. Choosing fall mums in full flower gives an instant impact for any autumn event. While beautiful, in my opinion, a mum in full bloom is like a shooting star -- bright and glorious, but only for the briefest time.

For a longer, more prolonged landscape show, select plants that still have tight buds and are just starting to show color. This choice increases the period of showy display as the buds begin to open in the garden.

My favorite way to use fall garden mums is to display them in containers on the front porch or back patio.

When combined with a decorative ceramic container, their visual impact can be dramatic. There is no need to transplant; just slip the mum, container and all, into the larger pot. If you are worried about the weight of some ceramic pots, there are fabulous foam and plastic pots that really look like their heavier cousins.

A word of caution is needed: Always keep the containers consistently moist. If the containers dry out, the flower show quickly fades away.

Fall mums are treated as seasonal annuals to be removed when the flowers have faded and replaced with the next season's flowers. But have you considered transplanting them into your garden when their flowers fade? Most of our fall mums have been bred for their colors and may not be cold hardy, even in coastal Mississippi.

Several years ago, I transplanted a range of gorgeous colors into my garden and only a purple variety overwintered successfully. But I think transplanting them into the garden is worthwhile, since you were going to compost the plants anyway.

Try planting them in a raised bed for the better soil drainage in the winter months. After the first freeze, cut the stems back and mulch with a layer of pine straw. Next spring, pull the pine straw away and see what emerges from a long winter's rest.

Mums that still have tight buds and are just starting to show color provide a longer, more prolonged landscape show in the fall. (Photo by MSU Extension Service/Gary Bachman)

Ag Commissioner Gipson Encourages Farmers to Sign Up for the USDA's Second Round of Coronavirus Food Assistance Program

By Paige Manning
Director of Marketing and Public Relations - MDAC

Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Andy Gipson applauds the Trump administration and the U.S. Department of Agriculture on the second round of the Coronavirus Food Assistance Program (CFAP 2), which will provide an additional $14 billion dollars for agricultural producers who continue to face market disruptions and associated costs because of COVID-19. Signup for CFAP 2 began September 21 and will run through December 11, 2020.

"I encourage all of our farmers across the state to evaluate the impact of COVID-19 on their operations and consider whether this program could help in their recovery," said Commissioner Gipson. "Additional commodities have been added to CFAP 2, and I thank the Trump administration for making these commodities eligible for the program."

CFAP 2 payments will be made for three categories of commodities – Price Trigger Commodities, Flat-rate Crops and Sales Commodities. Price trigger commodities are major commodities that meet a minimum five-percent price decline over a specified period of time. Flat-rate crops either do not meet the five-percent price decline trigger or do not have data available to calculate a price change. Sales commodities eligible for CFAP 2 include specialty crops, aquaculture, nursery crops and floriculture, and other commodities not included in the price trigger and flat-rate payment categories. The full list of eligible commodities outlined by payment category can be viewed at www.farmers.gov/cfap/commodities.

Under CFAP 2, there is a payment limitation of $250,000 per person or entity for all commodities combined. Applicants who are corporations, limited liability companies, limited partnerships may qualify for additional payment limits when members actively provide personal labor or personal management for the farming operation. In addition, this special payment limitation provision has been expanded to include trusts and estates for both CFAP 1 and 2.

Andy Gipson

Producers will also have to certify that they meet the Adjusted Gross Income limitation of $900,000 unless at least 75 percent or more of their income is derived from farming, ranching or forestry-related activities. Producers must also be in compliance with Highly Erodible Land and Wetland Conservation provisions.

The application process for payments began on September 21. For a complete list of eligible commodities, payment rates and application submissions, producers should contact their local Farm Service Agency office or visit www.farmers.gov/cfap.

Preheat oven to 250 degrees F (120 degrees C). Grease one baking sheet. In a mixing bowl, whip together the egg white and water until frothy. In a separate bowl, mix together sugar, salt, and cinnamon. Add pecans to egg whites, stir to coat the nuts evenly. Remove the nuts, and toss them in the sugar mixture until coated. Spread the nuts out on the prepared baking sheet. Bake at 250 degrees F (120 degrees C) for 1 hour. Stir every 15 minutes.

Beat until smooth. Blend in flour, cinnamon, nutmeg, baking soda, and salt. Fold in chocolate chips and nuts. Fill cans 1/2 to 3/4 full. Bake for 1 hour, or until an inserted knife comes out clean. Commissioner Andy Gipson Announces Wild Hog Control Program Application Period

By Hannah East
Marketing Specialist
Market Development - MDAC

On September 24, 2020, Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Andy Gipson announced that the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce (MDAC) will be accepting applications for its Wild Hog Control Program (WHCP) Monday, September 28, through Monday, October 12.

Through the WHCP, MDAC will provide “smart” wild hog traps to landowners and managers for the control of wild hogs on private agricultural and forestry lands in Mississippi. Traps will be deployed in concentrated focal areas across the state, which will be determined by MDAC through the application process. MDAC will provide the training necessary to use the “smart” traps and technical guidance regarding the most effective methods to trap and control wild hogs on private lands.

“We are excited to offer the ‘smart’ traps to private landowners and managers to help control invasive wild hogs on their property,” said Commissioner Gipson. “We have been in a test phase for the last month, and now we are ready to offer the Wild Hog Control Program to the public. As part of the program, our staff will work closely with participants to ensure that they have the required knowledge and training to successfully use the traps. This will be a great opportunity for farmers, ranchers and landowners to use some of the best trapping equipment available today.”

Submitted applications will be evaluated based on the number of Traps will be available for one-month intervals, dependent upon use and success. One trap per 1,000 acres is recommended, depending on landscape and land use.

acres available for trapping, historical agriculture losses caused by wild hogs and current trapping efforts on the property. A cooperative application is encouraged for small acreage (i.e., adjoining land managers of small parcels should work together to submit one application.) Traps will be available for one-month intervals, dependent upon use and success. One trap per 1,000 acres is recommended, depending on landscape and land use.

Applications will be available for download at mdac.ms.gov/whcp, and can be submitted by email or mail. If submitting by email, send applications to MDAC’s Director of Federal and Environmental Affairs Chris McDonald at chris@mdac.ms.gov. If submitting by mail, send applications to the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce WHCP, 121 North Jef-erson Street, Jackson MS 39201.

The WHCP is the result of legislation passed during the 2020 Legislative Session, which authorized Commissioner Gipson to operate programs to fight nuisance wildlife species on private agricultural and forestry lands. In Mississippi alone, wild hogs cause more than $60 million in damages annually. The WHCP will provide the equipment and technical guidance needed to control wild hogs across the state. The Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation provided key support to the program with the acquisition of additional traps that will be deployed to help control wild hogs on private lands.

Visit mdac.ms.gov/whcp for more information about the Wild Hog Control Program, program guidelines and applications. Questions regarding the WHCP can be submitted to Chris McDonald at chris@mdac.ms.gov.

Tour Highlighted MSU Meat-Processing Ability

By Bonnie Coblentz
MSU Extension Service

Mississippi State University’s state-of-the-art meat processing facilities drew Mississippi Agriculture and Commerce Commissioner Andy Gipson and a small group of influential lawmakers to campus for a personal tour.

The visit was organized to address a desire to increase meat processing capacity in the state. MSU’s modern meat processing facility and storefront operation on campus became the centerpiece of the daylong tour.

In addition to Gipson, the tour included Mississippi Sen. Chuck Younger, Mississippi Rep. Bill Pigott and Kemper County beef producer Fred Stokes. The tour was hosted in part by MSU President Mark Keenum.

Reuben Moore, interim vice president of the MSU Division of Agriculture, Forestry and Veterinary Medicine, said MSU met the legislators’ need for information and can meet producers’ need for education in the industry’s latest techniques, as well.

“A lot of people want to shop local and know the source of the food they eat,” Moore said. “Our small cattle operations are uniquely positioned to do this, but they sometimes do not have the facilities or capacity to process the meat they raise.”

Keith Coble, head of the MSU

Department of Agricultural Economics, let legislators know they did not have to travel out of state to see small-scale, modern meat processing facilities. MSU’s facility, which opened in 2018, is part of an animal, dairy, and poultry science complex that is nearing completion.

“There are a lot of people, not just in Mississippi but all over the country, who are trying to find a way to produce local or branded food products -- in this case meat,” Coble said. “It is a challenge to build a facility that is viable economically.”

“The fact that Mississippi State has a state-of-the-art meat science lab funded by the Legislature to teach students -- potential meat processors -- about management and economics of a plant is a significant asset in helping Mississippians do this successfully,” he said.

Stops on the tour included the R.R. Foil Plant Science Research Center, H.H. Leveck Animal Research Center, the MAFES Sales Store, Meat Science and Muscle Biology Lab, and MSU College of Veterinary Medicine.

“We were able to introduce our guests to a combination of researchers and Extension personnel all working together to help the meat industry of this state,” Coble said.
